Poetry Criticism

Finding Critical Information in Books:

The library may have books ABOUT a specific poet’s life and his/her writings. Use the library catalog to locate these books. Do a subject search using the poet’s name by entering last name first (for example: Hughes, Langston). General books about a poet can also be useful in discussing the poet’s style or use of certain literary themes. Use the index in general books to find comments about a particular poem. To find poems BY a particular poet, do an author search rather than a subject search in the library catalog. Remember, that books are available from other libraries through LINK+.
